

Labyrinth (pencil)
beatriz martin vidal

WALK WITH RACHEL

For use at a labyrinth walk at Christmas & Hannukah 2012 during a time of national mourning due to the shooting deaths at Sandy Hook Elementary in Newtown, Connecticut

“Rachel weeping for her children;
she refused to be consoled,
because they are no more.”

Jeremiah 31:15 & Matthew 2:18

To walk with Rachel is:

To walk with the Biblical mother of Joseph and Benjamin
To walk in her memory as her grandchildren are taken away
To walk in a round, remembering her 12th Century crusaders’ tomb near Bethlehem, where King Herrod massacred the innocent children

To walk alone and together to build a movement to end gun violence

To walk in the Prophet’s dream:

“Keep your voice from weeping...there is reward for your work... there is hope for your future.”

Jeremiah 31:16-17

Duncan Newcomer is a poet, psychotherapist and minister and has served United Churches of Christ and Presbyterian churches in Connecticut; Washington, DC; and Kentucky. He lives in New Harmony, Indiana.